

CARDOZO

Dear Prospective LL.M. Student:

Thank you for your interest in the graduate law program at the Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law! Our goal is not only to provide you with admissions materials that will inform you about the programs and resources available through the LL.M. program at Cardozo, but also assist you through the application process.

Each term we receive an abundance of applications, and admission to the LL.M. program is a selective process. The goal of the Admissions Committee is to admit a group of students who will contribute to the energy and life of the law school community by bringing differences in culture, perspective, and experience. We are looking for students who have not only demonstrated academic and professional excellence, but who will also bring Cardozo's progressive and multi-disciplinary approach towards law to the global legal community as ambassadors upon their graduation.

The Admissions Committee considers many factors of a candidate's application including undergraduate and graduate school academic performance, letters of recommendation, standardized test scores, professional experience, writing ability, English-speaking ability, and the personal statement. The Committee will also take into consideration any marked improvement in grades, extra-curricular activities, and demonstrated leadership and/or entrepreneurial skills. As you prepare your application, I encourage you to think about the qualities and personal attributes that make you unique and try to convey those distinguishing qualities in your application.

Should you have any questions about the application process or the materials, please email us at lawinfo@yu.edu or contact us at (212)790-0357. Again, thank you for your interest in Cardozo Law School's LL.M. program. We look forward to receiving your application.

Very truly yours,
Selene Steelman
Director of LL.M. Admissions
